

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

U.S. Bank National Association,

Case No.: 2:21-cv-00273-JAD-NJK

Plaintiff

v.

Order Granting Motion to Lift Stay and Denying Countermotion to Extend Stay

Fidelity National Title Group, Inc.; et al.,

Defendants

[ECF Nos. 30, 34]

This is one of the many second-generation HOA foreclosure cases in which mortgage holders sue title insurers for failing to defend and indemnify them in the first-generation quiet-title suits that swamped Nevada’s courts for many years. The central issue in this new crop of cases is whether the title-insurance policies, which contain standard industry form language, cover such claims. By stipulation, I stayed this case while the appeal from a similar action was pending,<sup>1</sup> with the hope that the Ninth Circuit’s ruling would bind the result here. But that appeal concluded with no useful guidance, and Plaintiff U.S. Bank now moves to lift the stay so this case may proceed.<sup>2</sup> The title insurers oppose that request and countermove to extend the stay until yet another appeal—one before the Nevada Supreme Court—concludes.<sup>3</sup> Because I find that a further stay is not warranted, I grant the motion to lift stay, deny the countermotion to extend it, and return this case to the litigation track.

<sup>1</sup> ECF No. 29 (stay order).

<sup>2</sup> ECF No. 30 (motion to lift stay).

<sup>3</sup> ECF No. 34 (countermotion to extend stay).

Discussion

A district court has the inherent power to stay cases to control its docket and promote the efficient use of judicial resources.<sup>4</sup> When determining whether a stay is appropriate pending the resolution of another case—often called a “Landis stay”—the district court must weigh: (1) the possible damage that may result from a stay, (2) any “hardship or inequity” that a party may suffer if required to go forward, (3) “and the orderly course of justice measured in terms of the simplifying or complicating of issues, proof, and questions of law” that a stay will engender.<sup>5</sup>

A temporary stay made sense in May 2021. Briefing was complete in the Ninth Circuit Wells Fargo appeal, and the significant overlap between it and this matter brought hope that a brief stay would make for efficient case management. Unfortunately, Wells Fargo did not yield a ruling that also disposes of this case. Although the Nevada Supreme Court has been presented with some of the same issues in PennyMac Corporation v. Westcor Land Title Insurance Company, there is no guarantee that the PennyMac appeal will be any more useful. Even if it proves to be so, we likely won’t know for more than a year as briefing isn’t even scheduled to begin until mid-March.<sup>6</sup> And if this new generation of HOA cases shares just a fraction of the whack-a-mole character of its predecessor, even a binding ruling in PennyMac won’t end this litigation.

A second stay pending the PennyMac appeal also will result in too great a delay here. This case is already a year old, and its subject matter is far older. It involves a title-insurance

---

<sup>4</sup> Landis v. North American Co., 299 U.S. 248, 254–55 (1936); Dependable Highway Exp., Inc. v. Navigators Ins. Co., 498 F.3d 1059, 1066 (9th Cir. 2007).

<sup>5</sup> Lockyer v. Mirant Corp., 398 F.3d 1098, 1110 (9th Cir. 2005).

<sup>6</sup> Nevada Supreme Court Case Information: 83737, Nev. APP. CASE MGMT. SYS., <http://caseinfo.nvsupremecourt.us/public/caseView.do?csIID=62688> (last visited Jan. 26, 2022).

1 policy issued in 2006 and interpretation guidance from endorsement manuals in effect nearly a
 2 decade ago.<sup>7</sup> And the coverage demand that prompted this litigation was tendered more than
 3 seven years ago now.<sup>8</sup> Further delaying discovery with an extended stay will only compound the
 4 difficulties that the parties are already likely to face. When balanced against the possible damage
 5 and hardships that may result from a further stay, the likelihood of benefits is insufficiently
 6 weighty to justify one.

7 Conclusion

8 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the motion to extend the stay of this case pending
 9 the conclusion of the PennyMac appeal [ECF No. 34] is DENIED, and the motion to lift the stay
 10 [ECF No. 30] is GRANTED. THE STAY IS LIFTED, and the Clerk of Court is directed to 11 remove the STAY designation from this matter and ADMINISTRATIVELY REOPEN the 12 case. Any party wishing to reurge a motion that was pending (and denied without prejudice) at 13 the time the stay was entered should review the prior motion, make any changes or updates that 14 are warranted, and file the motion with the word “Renewed” before the title. The deadlines for 15 filing responses and replies will be governed by Local Rule 7-2(b).

16
 17 U.S. District Judge Jennifer A. Dorsey
 18 January 26, 2022
 19
 20
 21
 22

---

23 <sup>7</sup> ECF No. 1-1 at 7–13.

<sup>8</sup> Id. at 17.